S I R,

YOU have stepped forth to do Justice to yourself. I hope you will now think it seasonable and becoming you, to do full Justice to the WORD OF GOD. Your Sermon upon HERESY has given great and just Offence; and the Point I have in View, as the main Subject of this Letter, is of too great Consequence to be suffered to be lost in the Triumphs which you have raised to yourself upon your own or your Adversaries Mistakes. As I had no Hand in writing those Letters in the Weekly Miscellany which gave Rise to this Controversy; so I will have nothing to do with the Controversy as it stands upon that Foot. But resuming the Debate, as it were de novo, shall tell you plainly what it is in your Sermon that I chiefly dislike, and for what Reasons I dislike it.

Your main Drift, Sir, is to shew that “ A “ HERETICK, in a BAD Sense, is one who “ knowingly espouses a false Doctrine, is in- “ sincere in his Profession, and asserts and “ defends what he is convinced is contrary to “ Christianity, and consequently one who “ maintains and supports the Interest of a “ Faction, to serve some base Designs *.”
 This is your own Account. The View with which this Doctrine is to be supported, is (among other Things) to rectify some common, and (if you are right in your Notions) very bad Mistakes in the Exercise of Church Discipline. For thus you begin. “ Among “ Chri-

* Foster's Sermons, second Edit. p. 290.

“ Christians themselves, the Word Heresy, “ for want of being rightly understood, has “ been in every Age an Engine of Defama“ tion and Violence; by which Persons “ ——— of the best Characters, both for sound “ Knowledge and Integrity ——— have been “ stigmatized as Reprobates, DEBARR’D
“ THE PRIVILEGES OF CHRISTIAN
“ COMMUNION, and treated with the utmost “ Contempt and Barbarity *.” Elsewhere you ask; “ Shall we insist on PRIVATE “ ARTICLES OF OUR OWN, AND “ RIGHT NOTIONS IN INTRICATE “ AND PERPLEXING CONTROVER-“ SIES; and presumptuously pronounce all “ who have not the same Strength of Un“ derstanding ——— to be forsaken of God, “ and marked out for Destruction †?” As to Defamation and Violence, reprobating and marking out for Destruction; these are allowed to be very bad Things, which way soever the Notion of Heresy goes. But from these Passages, Sir, I think it appears, that one Part of your Intention in maintaining this Doctrine, that he only is a Heretic, in a BAD
Sense, who KNOWINGLY espouses a false Doctrine, is to shew the Unreasonableness of

 “ If Heresy be an Error of the WILL,
 “ and such only can be guilty of it who are “ condemned of themselves, how can we cer“ tainly know, in most Cases, at least, whe“ ther a Man be an Heretic or not? Let each “ of us put this Question to himself impar“ tially, and if we cannot answer it to our Satis“ faction, let us however learn thus much “ from our Ignorance, to be modest in our “ Censures we pass upon others *.” Your Caution here, Sir, seems to be needless. Your Meaning is not only that we should be mo- dest in our Censures of others (which is certainly a very good Rule) but that A L L Censures of others, excluding Men from the Privileges of Christian Communion for Heretical Opinions, is wrong; and so it must needs be, if your Notion of Heresy be right. For if those only are Hereticks who are condemned of themselves; that is (as you often explain your self) who act against the Light and Con- viction of their own Minds, it is impossible that that we should have any certain Rule to judge of Heresy; and without a Rule of Judgment all Judgment must be absurd. And this you expressly allow and contend for in the Words immediately following. “ Indeed in the first “ Age of Christianity, when the extraordinary “ Gifts of the Holy Ghost were communicated, of which one was the Gift of discerning Spirits, this Matter might be more “ easily decided. — But what Rule have we “ now these extraordinary Illuminations and “ Assistances are ceased, by which to conduct ourselves in Enquiries of this Nature.” This is saying (in my humble Apprehension) that we neither have, nor ever had, since the extraordinary Gifts of the Holy Ghost have ceased, ANY Rule by which to judge who are Hereticks. And (allowing your Notion of Heresy to be just) you say right. For who can judge of the Heart of Man but God?

This is what appears to me to be your Opinion, as it certainly is the Opinion of many others; and it is with a View to this single Point that I mean to talk with you. If your Account of Heresy (I say) is good your Cause is good; let us see how you support it.

You

You say that Heresy generally (or in the general Notion of it) signifies no more than a SECT or PARTY in Religion; which is admitted. But whereas you say also that Heresy in the new Testament is most commonly used in an INDIFFERENT Sense, but seldom in a BAD one: This, Sir, is a great Mistake. It is used three times in the Epistles; all in a bad Sense. It is used six times in the Acts; and of these, three are in a bad Sense too. You indeed, Sir, have pressed into your Service I Cor. xi. 19. For there must also be HERESIES among you, that they who are approved may be made manifest. But I must needs demand it back again. You say that the Design of this Place was to shew that considering the various Tempers of Men, their different Views and Passions, &c. — it was natural to expect that they would divide into Parties about Religion — and that the Providence of God wisely permitted this for the Tryal of their Integrity. Very good, Sir! But how does it appear from hence that the Word Heresy is here used in an indifferent Meaning? Suppose the Apostle had said (as he might have said) there must be Gluttony and Drunkenness among you, that they who are approved may be made manifest;

A Letter to Mr. F O S T E R. 7

fest; would it follow that the Words Gluttony and Drunkennes were not used to express something that was very bad? A wise and a good Use may be made of the Evils which God permits, yet those Evils will be Evils still, and may be represented as such. In like manner you cite Acts xxiv. 5. where St. Paul is said to be a Ringleader of the Sect (or Heresy) of the Nazarenes, as an Instance where the Word Heresy is used in an indifferent Meaning. Absurdly again! For the Use of a Word is determined by the Mind or Intention of him that speaks it. If St. Paul had said of himself that he was of the Sect of the Nazarenes, your Observation had been right. But when Tertullus the Roman Orator who was accusing him before Felix said it, surely it was meant as a Term of Reproach; and so St. Paul understood it, as appears by his Answer. After the Way which THEY CALL Heresy, so worship I the God of my Fathers. Once more; in Acts xxviii. 22. where the Jews say to St. Paul, As to this Sect (or Heresy) we know that it is every where spoken against: The Word Heresy is not used in an indifferent Sense, (as you cite it) but in a bad one. Christianity is intended by the Expression, no doubt. But do you not consider, that the Speech

8 A Letter to Mr. FOSTER.

Speech comes from the Mouth of a Jew? I do not think this to be very material: But I take notice of these Mistakes, Sir, to shew you how ready you are to take things upon trust, and to run away with your own Inventions.

Let us now see, Sir, what use you make of this notable Observation. According to this Account (you say) the general Notion of a HERETICK is no more than this, viz. one that sets up to be the HEAD or CHOOSES to JOIN himself to a particular Religious Sect. If you mean here to tell us what you think ought to be the Notion of a Heretick, you say nothing to the Purpose. If you would have us understand that according to the Use of Language, this is the Notion of a Heretick, it is not true, nor will your Account make it so. For though αἵρεσις, in the general Notion of it, signifies a Sect indefinitely, yet αἵρετινὸς (a Heretick) is evermore pinn'd down to a bad Sense, as every common English Reader knows. If a Man should ask me what religious Sect I am of, I might very properly answer I am a Christian. But if a Christian says, such a Man is a Heretick or Sectary — the Word always carries with it a Charge of Error. There is but

but one Passage in Scripture where the Word ἁρετικὸς is used, and that is the Passage you are commenting upon; and there it is used in a bad Sense. But allowing your Notion that Heretick as well as Heresy will bear an indefinite Sense; what follows? Why it follows, say you, that an Heretick in a BAD Sense MUST be one who KNOWINGLY espouses a false Doctrine, is INSINCERE in his Profession, and asserts and defends what he is CONVINCED is contrary to Christianity, &c. But where does this Consequence lye? I profess I cannot see it. You say, that to make a Man an Heretick, it must be the Matter of his CHOICE — to do what, Sir? Why to set up to be the Head, or to JOIN HIMSELF to a particular Religious Sect, i. e. to fall in by external Profession with some Religious Sect; which is right. For the Profession is all he can chuse. A Man cannot chuse his Opinion, as he may his Company. Attend therefore a little. When a Man joins himself by Profession to any Religious Sect, UNLESS he does it in Opposition to the Light of his own Mind, maintaining that to be true which he believes to be false, he is (say you) no Heretick in a bad Sense, BECAUSE a Heretick at Large, (as 'tis now supposed) signifies indefinitely any one who joins himself to any Sect or Party. — Where, I ask, do you find this CONSEQUENCE? Have not I as much a Right to say that he is a Heretick in a bad Sense, who joins himself to any Sect professing a bad Religion; and will not this as well consist with your Account of the general Notion of a Heretick? How then (I say) does your CONSEQUENCE appear? You tell us immediately. It WILL appear beyond Dispute, when you have consider'd your Text. Why then it seems at present, it does NOT appear; and you are much in the right. For I challenge the best Logician upon Earth to draw such a Conclusion from such Premises. But if a Consequence, Sir, flows not from the Premises laid down, but from something else, it is (with respect to such Premises) NO Consequence. So that (in your own Account) you have all this while been saying nothing that will serve your Purpose.

10 A Letter to Mr. FOSTER.

To your Text then let us come, to find out that which as yet, it seems, is as great a Secret as ever. Your Text is this; A Man that is an Heretick, after the first and second Admonition reject, know-

A Letter to Mr. FOSTER. II

knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned of himself, (ὁ αὐτὴν ἑαυτοῦ καταδικάζει.) Tit. iii. 10, 11. From this Passage, Sir, it is to be prov'd, that HE ONLY is a HERETICK in a BAD Sense, (i. e. in such a Sense as will justify the Church in excluding him from the Privileges of Christian Communion) who makes a Profession contrary to Christianity; in OPPOSITION to the SENSE and CONVICTION of HIS OWN MIND; and you think you have done it. I think that you have not done it, and, what is more, I think that you will never be able to do it. The Issue must shew who is mistaken. I will state all your Arguments fairly, and follow you in every Step you have taken.

You begin very unfortunately. According to St. Paul's Account in the Text, an HERETICK is not only subverted, or turned aside from the true Faith; he not only entertains wrong Sentiments of Christianity — How, Sir! Is a Heretick one who espouses a false Doctrine, knowing it to be such; and is he one too who is turned aside from the true Faith, and entertains wrong Sentiments of Christianity?

YOU say that nobody is a Heretick, in St. Paul's Sense, but he who knowingly espouses a false Doctrine. And is it possible then to be true that he should be a Heretick, who entertains wrong Sentiments? You tell us your self it cannot be. There can be no Heresy where there is, properly speaking, an Error of Judgment. This may be owing to Laziness, Prejudice, partial Examination, and other very bad Causes; but HERESY IT CANNOT BE as long as a Man BELIEVES he is in the right *. If then a Man cannot be a Heretick who believes he is in the Right; How can a Heretick entertain wrong Sentiments? Is not every Man, in common Speech, supposed to believe every Sentiment which he is said to entertain? — This part of your Exposition then, Sir, must needs be given up, as what utterly overthrows the very Thing you intend to support.

To go on. You say, that according to St. Paul's Account a Heretick is not only subverted, i. e. entertains wrong Sentiments, but SINNETH, that is (say you) he doth this WILLFULLY and with an ILL INTENTION. What is it, Sir, that he doth wilfully and with an

an ill Intention? Why, entertain wrong Sentiments, for so the Construction requires it should be understood. How is this, I pray, Sir? I can easily understand that a Man may make profession of a wrong Opinion wilfully and with an ill Intention: But how he should entertain a wrong Opinion, i. e. be perswaded of, or believe any wrong Opinion with an ill Intention is quite incomprehensible. Nor do I understand how a Man can entertain a wrong Opinion wilfully, any otherwise than as the Causes which led him into that wrong Opinion might be wilful, such as Laziness, partial Examination, and the like. And yet Error which arises from these, or any other bad Causes, you have already excluded from your Notion of Heresy. To save my self and you much Trouble, I will release you, Sir, from this Confusion and Self-contradiction, and make you speak Sense if I can. The Point you are to prove is, that by a Heretick St. Paul means him only who maintains wrong Opinions knowing them to be such. To this purpose you observe, that the Apostle saith of such a one that he sinneth; and to draw any Argument from hence, every one sees it will be necessary to say, that no Man sinneth but he who acts directly against Conviction. Is this now, Sir, a Point that you will venture to maintain? I should hope that you will be better advised; and yet I see a good deal tending this Way in the Passage that now lies before me. You say that such as have merely an erroneous Judgment can't be here meant; because Errors in the Understanding considered in themselves are not criminal, but naturally arise from the Weakness and Fallibility of human Reason; they are in most Cases involuntary, and in many unavoidable, and therefore — the Persons described by the Apostle as Sinners must be wilful Corrupters and Opposers of the Christian Religion: Such whose Minds are perverted by irregular Dispositions and Appetites, and who have resolved to sacrifice Truth and Virtue to the Gratification of their sensual Desires. The Design of this Passage is to set forth who are Sinners? The Question under Consideration is whether none are Sinners but those who act against Conviction. It is hard to resolve, Sir, which Way we are to take you. The latter Part of the Sentence leads to the Affirmative; and yet should I now charge this upon you as your Opinion, there would presently be a new

Outcry

Outcry about Misrepresentations. You would take Sanctuary under your guarding Expressions, — such as merely erroneous, — Errors considered in themselves — they are in most Cases involuntary — in many unavoidable, and the like; and I should be treated (I suppose) in no very decent manner. I do not love hard Words, Sir, nor will I run the Hazard of burning my Fingers. Therefore here I leave this Point to rest till you will please to explain yourself; and shall only tell you that unless you can prove that nobody is a Sinner but he who acts against the Sense and Conviction of his own Mind, your Argument from this Part of St. Paul's Description of a Heretick, that he sinneth, concludes nothing.

Your next Support is the Direction which St. Paul gives about the Manner of proceeding with a Heretick, which is to admonish him only. Here is no Direction to instruct him, from whence (say you) it evidently follows that the Fault lay in the WILL, not in the UNDERSTANDING. It will be a sufficient Answer to this Shadow of an Argument, to say, That as St. Paul was now giving Directions

16 A Letter to Mr. FOSTER.

ctions to a Bishop, it was natural for him to mention such Particulars only, as especially concerned the Office of a Bishop; such were Admonition and Rejection; for as to Instruction, that lay in common among all the Pastors of the Church. To proceed therefore to your great Support of all, the last Part of St. Paul's Character of a Heretick; which is that he is condemned of himself. The Greek Word is αὐτοκατάκριτος which you (as many others have done before you) interpret as meaning that the Heretick stood condemned in his own Judgment and Conscience. You give no Reason for this Interpretation, but take it for granted, which no doubt is a very easy Way. But it is well worth considering, Sir, whether the Word will not admit of some other Meaning. I had occasion some Years ago to consider this Text. I have seen no Reason as yet to alter my Judgment as to the Interpretation I then gave of it, nor can I mend it; and therefore I will take the Liberty of transcribing it (with very little Variation) from my Polemical Tracts, Defense of the Report, p. 186. 187.

“ The Word αὐτοκατάκριτος seems here to “ be used in sensu forensi, as signifying one “ who

“ who stands condemned, not by his own “ CONSCIENCE before God, but, by his “ own MOUTH before Man. One who con“ demns himself, by confessing himself a “ Criminal; i. e. one whom the Law ad“ judges to be such, and upon whom there“ fore it pronounces Condemnation. For “ clearing this Interpretation, let it be con“ sidered, that in ordinary Cases it was re“ quired, that antecedently to publick Ad“ monition, the Crime of which a Man was “ accused, should be proved against him by “ the Testimony of competent Witnesses.
“ Thus our Saviour directs, Matth. xviii. 15, “ 16. If thy Brother shall trespass against “ thee — and will not hear thee, take with “ thee one or two more, that in the Mouth of “ two or three WITNESSES every Word
“ may be established. And thus St. Paul both “ prescribed and practised. This is the third “ Time I am coming to you; in the Mouth of “ two or three WITNESSES shall every “ Word be established, 2 Cor. xiii. 1. And “ again; Against an Elder receive not an Ac- “ cusation but under two or three WIT- “ NESSES, 1 Tim. v. 19. The Thing in“ deed in it self is highly reasonable and “ necessary. For it is absurd in a Judge to “ admonish a Man as an Offender, without “ sufficient Evidence that he is an Offender;

 “ which, because Men are ordinarily wont “ to endeavour to conceal their Faults, can“ not therefore ordinarily be had, without “ the Testimony of those who were Wit“ nesses of the Fact, or of some Overt-Act “ which tends to the Discovery of it. The “ Adulterer and the Fornicator sins in Secret,
 “ and does not make it his Business to pub“ lish his own Wickedness; here therefore “ there is need of Witnesses. But if a Man
 “ be a Heretick, i. e. if he be the Leader,
 “ or open Abetter of any Sect, in Opposi“ tion to the Apostolick Doctrine, the Ne“ cessity of Witnesses is manifestly super“ seded. In this Case he becomes his own “ Accuser, and with his own Mouth proclaims “ himself an Offender against the Order and “ Discipline of the Church, in the same “ Sense in which a Prisoner at the Bar is said “ to be self-condemned, who by pleading “ Guilty to his Indictment, confesses himself “ an Offender against the Law of his Coun“ try. See now whether upon this Foot the “ Sense of the Passage will not be easy and “ na-

“ natural. A Man that is an Heretick, after “ the first and second Admonition reject,
 “ i. e. Let a Heretick be only twice admo- “ nished, and if after this he doth not re- “ form, let him be excommunicated. Why “ so? Why it follows in the next Words, “ ΕΙΔΩΣ ὅτι ἑξῆς ἐξαπατᾷ ὁ τοιοῦτος, &c. be- “ cause such a one publishing his own Of- “ fence, thou KNOWEST that he is sub- “ verted. The Reason is brought to shew
 “ not why a Heretick should be excommu- “ nicated, but why the Bishop, in such a “ Case, should forthwith prodeed to Admo- “ nition, without calling in that Evidence of “ the Fact, which was usual in other Cases.
 “ And to this may be well applied what was “ said upon another Occasion: What need we “ any Witnesses? For we our selves have heard “ of his own Mouth.—

“ As there is nothing in this Interpretation “ which is not agreeable to the Reason of the “ Thing; so for ought I can perceive, 'tis “ such an Interpretation as the Greek Word “ will well admit of. Ἀπαρχαίρετος no “ where occurs in the sacred Writings but “ in this single Place, and therefore we must “ judge of its Signification by the Use of D 2 “ other

“ other Words which bear a near Relation to “ it. In the Sense in which I understand it,
 “ the word αὐτοκατακριτός would be more pro“ perly rendred SELF-ACCUSED than SELF-CON-“ DEMNED. And this is certain, that κρίνω fig-“ nifies to accuse as well as to judge or condemn;
 “ and accordingly κρίσις βλασφημίας is a rail“ ing Accusation, Jude 9. But this perhaps “ may not be thought decisive, because “ Compounds often vary from the Sense of “ their Originals. We must therefore con“ sider whether κατακρίνω will bear a Sense a“ greeable to this Interpretation; and con“ cerning this we may observe, that those are “ frequently said κατακρίναι, not only who “ do themselves as Judges determine or pass “ Sentence of Condemnation upon any Man, “ but those also who do indirectly or more “ remotely condemn a Man by being in some “ respect or other the Instrument in vertue “ whereof Condemnation is pronounced.
 “ Thus Heb. xi. 7. it is said of Noah that “ κατέκρινε τὸ κόσμον, he condemned the World, “ i. e. being a Preacher of Righteousness,
 “ and foretelling the approaching Vengeance “ of God against the World, which the “ World regarded not, he became the Means “ or Instrument of its Condemnation. But “ what comes nearer to our Purpose yet is,
 “ that

“ that those particularly through whose Evi“ dence or Testimony Condemnation follows, “ are said κατακρίνειν to condemn. Thus “ Mat. xii. 41. and Luke xi. 32. The Men of “ Nineveh shall rise up in Judgment with this “ Generation (ὃ καὶ κατακρινῶσιν αὐτοὺς) and shall “ condemn it. How so? Why certainly not “ by passing Sentence upon them, but by “ standing as Witnesses against them, that “ they were inexcusable in their Disobedi“ ence: For thus it follows; for they repented “ at the preaching of Jonas, and behold a “ greater than Jonas is here; i. e. their Re- “ pentance under those lesser Means will be a “ convincing Proof that these greater which “ are now offered are abundantly sufficient, “ and consequently that those who reject them “ are utterly without Excuse. If then he “ who in general is the Means or Instrument “ of another’s Condemnation, and particu- “ larly who is in some respect or other an Evi- “ dence or Witness against him, may be said κα- “ τακρίνειν to condemn him; it will follow by “ Parity of Reason, that he who in any re- “ spect bears witness against himself, and so “ becomes the Instrument of his own Con- “ demnation, may be said to be αὐτοκατακρι- “ τος, condemned of himself. Ἀφ’ ἑαυτοῦ κα- “ τακρι-

22 A Letter to Mr. FOSTER.

“ ταχεινόμενος, and αυτοκατάχευτος, are Words “ denoting one and the same Thing. Now “ St. Paul says expressly of him who con“ demned another for a Fault of which he “ himself was guilty, that he did ἐαυτὸν “ καταχεῖναι (Rom. ii. 1.) i. e. he did virtu- “ ally or more remotely condemn himself, by “ bearing witness against himself, that the “ Crime of which he was guilty deserved “ Condemnation. And thus the unthrifty “ Servant (Luke xix. 22.) was ἐκ τῆ σίμγ“ τος ἐαυτοῦ κρινόμενος condemned out of his “ own Mouth, because he had hid up his Ta“ lent in a Napkin, when, by his own Con“ fession he knew that it would be required “ back again with Usury. Both these Forms “ of speaking agree in the general Idea of a “ Man’s standing as an Evidence against him“ self, though the particular Way or Man“ ner of doing it is different in each. Now “ for a Man to confess a Fact with which he “ is charged, or to be guilty of any publick “ notorious Offence, which the Law con“ demns, is one, and a very effectual Way of “ standing as an Evidence against himself, “ and consequently the Heretick whose Of“ fence is always notorious, may very fitly “ be said to be self-condemned.

This

This, Sir, is what I offered as my own Conjecture above ten Years ago; and I now offer it only as such. There are other Interpretations which some perhaps may like better. But this appears to me to be the true one. And if it be but probable; if it be but supportable; all the Weight you have laid upon this Text will fall to the Ground.

But whether this Interpretation be right or not, I think it a very clear Case that yours is wrong. The Passage is a Direction to Titus, Bishop (as we say) and (as you must own) an Officer of the first Distinction in the Church of Crete, who had it in charge to reject Hereticks. It is not to be supposed that Titus was the single Person in the Christian Church who had such a Trust. For the separating Hereticks from Christian Fellowship was a standing Power in all Churches at that time, as it has been from that time to this Day: For the Proof of which I shall content myself to refer you to the following Passages to be considered at your Leisure. Rom. xvi. 17. 2 Thes. iii. 6, 14. 2 John x. 2 Tim. ii. 16, 17, 20, 21. compared with 1 Cor. v. 6, 7, 9. And the Reasons for such Discipline which are given in Scripture, will equally agree with all Churches,

24 A Letter to Mr. F O S T E R.

Churches and all Times; which were, First, The Shame of the Offenders, 2 Theff. iii. 14. Secondly, The Preservation of the Body of Christ from the Infection of their Doctrines, Rom. xvi. 18. 2 Tim. ii. 17. That there can be no such Power in the Church now (if your Notion of a Heretick be admitted) is manifest, and this I suppose is what you would have. But why would you have it so, Sir, if the Reasons for this Discipline are as good now as they were seventeen hundred Years ago, and will be as good to the End of the World? But what I would observe to you is, that (according to your Notion) there could be no such Power, i. e. no such standing Power even at the Beginning; and to what purpose then was the Rule given? To know a Heretick, you agree, we must know his Heart. And was the Knowledge of Men's Hearts ever a standing Power in the Church? Do not the Apostles speak of this as the sole Prerogative of God? Thou Lord which knowest the Hearts of all Men, &c. Acts i. 24. You tell us that the Gift of DISCERNING SPIRITS WAS ONE of those Gifts of the Holy Ghost which were communicated in the first Age; and say, that Titus cannot be supposed, considering his Character and Office, to have been without out it. But how do you prove that the Gift of discerning Spirits signifies the Power of knowing Men's Hearts? Or if it does signify this, why do you say that Titus, considering his Character and Office, can't be supposed to have been without it? What was Titus's Character and Office? A Bishop. And can you shew, or is it reasonable to be supposed, that every Bishop of the Church at that time, had this Gift? I am not certain, nor you neither, that any of the Apostles ever had the Knowledge of Men's Hearts communicated to them by the Holy Ghost. The Text above-cited seems to imply the contrary. Once I was of Opinion that Acts v. 3. and Chap. xiv. 9. referred to this Power.† But those Texts will bear other Interpretations. It is not worth while to dispute this Point. Sure I am it was no standing Gift. The Apostles had it not when Matthias was chosen to the Apostleship. Why so? Was there ever greater Occasion for it? Besides, why would it not have been as properly exercised in admitting Men into the Church; as in casting them out; and in casting out those who covered over a naughty Heart by fair Professions, as those who opposed the Truth wilfully? But do we ever read of any such Instances? Or can you shew any good

E Reason

* Polem. Tracts ubi supra, p. 192.

Reason why (if there was such a Gift) it ceased with the Apostles, and thereby made an Act of Discipline (equally useful at all Times) impracticable for ever after? These are Points, Sir, which you should have considered before you took it for granted that the Power of rejecting Hereticks rested upon the Power of knowing Men's Hearts; and you should likewise have considered whether, in fact, upon the Cessation of Miracles, the Discipline ceased too. If you had done this, Sir, you must have seen that there is a great deal yet to be done before your Interpretation can be made to stand upon firm ground. — But you are too hasty to weigh Things with Coolness.

To go on to your other Texts. You produce several Passages, to shew that Heresy is a Work of the Flesh, and that the Hereticks of those times are set forth as Men of very immoral Lives. We will have no dispute, Sir, what Hereticks were formerly as to this Point, or what they are now. It is allowed you, that in Fact they generally were what they are in Scripture represented to have been, bad Men. But bad as they were, you will find it very hard to prove that they were condemned in their own own Consciences in the Opinions which they maintain'd. There are many bad Men at this Day who maintain Opinions which you and I think wrong; but their bad Lives is no Argument that they profess them against Conviction. I think, Sir, I have your Consent to this. For you say of Men of vicious Lives, that *they are better rejected for their IMMORALITY, which is notorious and palpable, than for HERESY, of which we CAN'T SO CERTAINLY JUDGE. Which is a Confession from you, that a bad Life is no certain Proof that a Man maintains a false Doctrine knowing it to be such. But supposing that the ancient Hereticks were described in Scripture as self-condemned, (in your sense of Self-condemnation) it would not follow, that being self-condemned is essential to the Notion of Heresy, It is one thing to say what Hereticks are; another to say what they must be.

Nothing now remains to be consider'd in your Sermon but your Inferences. To these I have one short Answer to give. Either they rightly follow from the Interpretation of your Text, or they do not. If they do not they are nothing to the Purpose. If they do, they can stand no longer than the Foundation that supports them; and if your Interpretation is wrong they must fall of course.

You will now, Sir, perhaps be desirous to know what is my Notion of Heresy. And I will tell it you shortly and plainly. The Apostles were under the Influence of the Holy Ghost, and judged of the Faith by which we are to be saved by his infallible Spirit. By the same Spirit they gave forth the Scriptures, which we receive as the Rule of our Faith. In the use of these you plead for private Judgment, and so do I. And if you will but allow the same Liberty of Judgment to the Ministers of Christ in the Execution of their Office, which you allow to every single Man besides in the Direction of his Conduct in all Cases (which one would think to be a very reasonable Demand) this you will see; That they who to them shall appear by the best use of their Judgments under the Direction of God's Word to have departed from the Faith (whether with Knowledge or against Knowledge; whether sincerely or insincerely) are to them Hereticks, and must by them be treated as such. This I conceive to be perfectly agreeable to St. Paul's Rule, and to all the Directions we have in Scripture concerning this matter. Mark them (i.e. ALL them) which cause Divisions and Offences

A Letter to Mr. FOSTER. 29

Offences contrary to the Doctrine which we have learned, and avoid them, Rom. xvi. 17.—Withdraw yourselves from EVERY Brother that walketh disorderly, 2 Thes. iii. 6. --If ANY Man obey not our word by this Epistle, NOTE that Man, v. 14.---If there come ANY unto you and bring not this Doctrine, receive him not, 2 John x. The Directions you see are absolute and without distinction, founded upon the single Consideration of their teaching other Doctrines. And the Church having now no help to know what are other Doctrines but her own Judgment directed by the Scriptures, MUST act according to her own Judgment. According to this Account (I confess) it will follow, that a Man may be a Heretick to one Church who is not a Heretick to another; and a Heretick to both who is not a Heretick to God. This may be lamented as the Effect of human Weakness and Frailty. But now Infallibility is ceased, otherwise it cannot be; unless you will say, that because Infallibility is ceased, therefore we are to have no Church or no Sacraments; or if we are to have Sacraments, that they are to be open to all who shall demand them, whatever Opinions they hold and profess. There is no Medium in the Case, * and therefore tell me, me, Sir, honestly and plainly what you will stand by. Will you say that Faith is nothing worth? Here you leave us in the dark again. For what can we certainly gather from such Expressions as these? Hereſy has been made to ſignify MERE ERRORS, Errors in SPECULATION, of NO IMPORTANCE to the Cause of ſolid Virtue or the Happineſs of Mankind.†---Shall we inſiſt on---right Notions in INTRICATE AND PERPLEXING CONTROVERSIES ---condemn others for SPECULATIVE ERRORS---think to make Attonement---by a fierce and outrageous Zeal for TRIFLES ||. ---Why ſhould we be forward to charge Hereſy on our Brethren for EVERY TRIFLING DIFFERENCE ∴? What do you mean, Sir, by your Trifles; your intricate and perplexing Controverſies; your ſpeculative Errors of no importance, &c.? Would you tell us that ALL Questions about what is neceſſary to be believed to qualify Men for Chriſtian Fellowship, are Questions about Trifles; Questions of no Importance? If you would; ſay ſo; and I ſhall underſtand you: If you would not; tell me who they are that plead for rejecting Men from Communion for ſuch matters, Churches may err as well as ſingle Men, in conſidering what is or is not of Importance enough to be made an Article of Communion.

But no Church I think has yet been so bad, or is ever likely to be so bad, as to make any Point of Faith an Article of Communion, but what IT judges or believes to be of Importance.

I must now take the Liberty, Sir, of giving you two or three Cautions. In the first Place, I desire you would not infer from this Account of Heresy, that I make Faith an arbitrary Thing; for no such Inference will follow. You and I, Sir, must judge for ourselves, what is the Faith taught us in the Scriptures. But be our Judgments what they will; Faith will be just what it is. Men may err; but Faith is subject to no Variation. The Case is the same, with respect to Churches. They may Decree what they judge to be the Faith taught in Scripture; and they may decree wrong. If they do, still, Faith alters not; nor is their Judgment a Rule to any but themselves. Therefore,

In the next Place, Sir, I desire I may not be censured as one who am for devoting Men to Destruction for Errors in Faith, meaning by Destruction the Wrath of Almighty God; the Judgment of the Church is a Rule for Discipline, not the Law of Salvation. God may save those whom the Church rejects, and will do so if they are rejected unworthily. Or if the Church judges right of their Case, so

32 A Letter to Mr. FOSTER.

so far as it appears to Men, they may, through the Sincerity of their Hearts, appear worthy of Acceptance in the Eyes of God. These Things, Sir, are plain and clear; but you, and such Writers as you are, love perpetually to confound them. For Instance. No honest Man (you say) can possibly be a Heretick. Why so? Why, because human Nature is frail and fallible, and it is not to be doubted but that the wise and merciful Governor of the World will make great Allowances — You go on to ask particularly; What is the Ground of our Acceptance with God under the Dispensation of the Gospel? And your Answer is, in short, SINCERITY. Now, if a sincere Desire to know and do the Will of God be the ONLY CONDITION of obtaining the Christian Salvation; must not ALL Mistakes which are consistent with general Sincerity, be consistent likewise with a State of Favour with God? Well; And what of all this, Sir? Every honest Man (say you) will be saved. Allow it; what follows? Why, that no honest Man can be a Heretick. But if I should say (as upon your Principles I might say) that every Heretick will be saved by his Sincerity; What would become of your your Consequence? Put your Argument into Form, and see how it will stand;

Every honest Man will be saved — But No Heretick can be saved, — Therefore No honest Man can be a Heretick.

The minor Proposition must be assumed, to make your Argument good. But where do you learn that no Heretick can be saved? Take my Notion of Heresy, and you cannot have it from Scripture that no Heretick can be saved, if what you say be true, That Sincerity is the only Condition of obtaining Salvation under the Gospel. For in my Notion of Heresy, a Heretick may be sincere; and therefore my Notion of Heresy (your Principle notwithstanding) may be true. As to the Doctrine here maintained, viz. That Sincerity is the only Condition of obtaining Salvation under the Gospel, I have at present nothing to do with it; and therefore I shall leave you to the Mercies of Mr. CHANDLER, which no doubt will be great towards a Brother, though (as I find by some Papers lately published) he has been very severe upon some other People, for saying the self-same Thing which you now say.

The last Caution I have to give you is; let me not be charged with being for P E R S E -

CUTION. For this too will be very unjust. I only say w H O are Hereticks; and how Hereticks are to be treated by the Church, with respect to Christian Communion. How they are to be treated by Civil Magistrates, with respect to the Privileges of Civil Society, I do not say; nor is it any part of the Argument. Yet this too is a very common Abuse. Whoever pleads for the Right of judging Heresy, he is presently represented by some Gentlemen as a Persecutor.

I have offered you no new Matters, Sir. The Doctrine I maintain, has been a Doctrine ever since the Christian Church had a Being. The Arguments I have used, and the Cautions I have given, have been said over and over by many Writers. And yet it is very remarkable, Sir, that in your Sermon upon Heresy, you have not vouchsafed to take one Word of Notice of any one Argument that has been offered on the other side of the Question. I hope, Sir, this is not the best Evidence you have to give us of your Sincerity. If you found those Objections too hard for you to answer, you was in the right to drop them; but then you should have let the Text alone. Answerable or unanswerable, every Reader now sees that they are not contemptible; and it will be expected that you clear your Interpretation of these Difficulties.

Whether I am a Writer considerable enough to deserve your Notice, must be left to your self. I only tell you, Sir, that if you shall think fit to Answer, you have the Points before you to which I expect you should give an Answer; and I shall hope for Reasons, not Reproaches.
